Ladies' Home Journal Patterns cost 10c and 15c. They are easier to cut by and fully six months ahead of any other patterns in style.

New location, just around the corner from Linings, and opposite Trimming Dept. First Floor—S. Kann, Sons & Co.

Spring hats at $5 and $10

These are two lines upon which we are putting special emphasis. You cannot find hats to equal ours at these two prices any place in the city.

At $5

The shapes are mostly turbans, mushrooms, large saucers, and large picture shapes. The materials are the majority of them in fancy horsehair braids and combinations of horsehair braid, and malines on chiffons, and some satin braids combined with horsehair.

The colors are white, black, the new Copenhagen, some in several tones of brown, and all the popular shades of the season.

At $10

This line comprises hats in large sailor shapes, high crowned and narrow brim hats, small turban effects, English walking hats, large Spanish turbans, hats with rolling brims.

Literally loaded with flowers in the most desirable and well scattered over the crown and brim, and we are using different kinds of flowers upon one hat, combining them in exquisite color harmonies, in others only one kind mixed in with the others, they are so handsome.

There are lovely effects shown; some have crowns of maline made or woven together in a large check or basket-work effect.

With several times the price we have placed upon them.

The very last lot of 25c embroidered linen at 12½c yd.

All perfect. Colors fast. Laundering qualities perfect.

The last shipment is to go on sale to-morrow. The quantity is just about half what we sold the first day. It was offered at this never-before price. We can get no more to sell under 25c a yard. Has a finish like linen, and will wash perfectly. The colors are the same as the first lot, and the same shade. Twenty feet away it looks like plain linen. The imitation of linen suiting is perfect. And it wears like linen. Suitable for making separate skirts, separate coats, wash suits, and jumper dresses. See it on one of the first floor bargain tables.

REIGN OF THE ROSE IS SOON COMING BACK

Over in France they are working night and day making roses for next summer. Roses of every color, thousands of them, to be worn on dresses, in the lapels of coats, on hats, on underwear instead of ribbon rosettes, in the hair, and wherever the designers can think of before summer and the rose season arrive.

Queen Victoria is responsible for this rose fad. She is said to love them best of all the flowers, and she has them on her gowns whenever possible. She loves the odor of them, too, and the ladies of Europe have taken up the scent along with the rose.

They buy rose sachet now instead of lavender for their linen boxes and drawers for lingerie. They make tiny pads of it and slip them into their boxes of stationery, and just before going out for the evening they spray themselves with rose perfume from the atomizer.

The American girl will doubtless think of many dainty ways of using the rose which have escaped the Parisian designers. Meanwhile she must be preparing to shed the fragrance of roses about wherever she goes, and she must wear a great many of the flowers, too. She can make a wreath of the tiny button roses, pink or white, to wear in her hair. Or she can make them into baby ribbon if she likes and set them on a twist of soft green tulle.

She can hunt up the biggest pink rose in the box of millinery odds and ends, press its petals into shape with her fingers, sew a tiny bag of rose sachet into the heart, and wear it in the lapel of her tailor-made coat. She can make herself a toque all of roses, pink, red, yellow, or even blue; but like the real rose, it must shed its fragrance wherever she goes.

She can make pretty Easter gifts for her friends by purchasing a bunch of soft pink military roses and sewing each one to a sachet. These roses are then pinned to an inner garment, and in time will perfume the whole costume. Some girls who think the rose fad can't possibly be carried too far are wearing medium-sized roses under their chins instead of the butterfly bow. Others who go in for things fluffy are making huge spring muffs of roses and quilting the lining with sachet.

Shut your eyes and smell of the reddest rose you ever saw. Wouldn't you declare it was pink? That's why so many rose color is to be worn this summer. It is a color that will be worn by girls who have the faintest notion that they look well in it, and by some who haven't.

But if a girl cannot wear pink, she can scent her clothes, and she can use the rose in no end of ways for trimmings. Latest lingerie from Paris has embroidered roses instead of the daisy and butterfly, which have reigned supreme all winter in embroideryland. It is very effective, for the roses can be as large as medallions and used in the same way, with lace set in around them.

On the popular waistcoat, too, it will blossom forth. Many of the linen-colored vests will have heavy pink and deep rose-colored roses embroidered on them in rope silk, while for the cretonnes, which promise to be worn so much, the rose is one of the quaintest of all designs.

THE BUSY CORNER

EMBROIDERIES.

The lots in to-morrow's sale are fewer in number than we have had for many weeks, and the values are correspondingly greater.

100 pieces of 30-inch shirt-waist frontings, worth up to $2.98 a yard, at 98c yd.

One piece of a pattern, so there are 100 different patterns to choose from. The patterns are new and not shown here before. The designs are the favored ones this season. Plenty of space between the designs for tucking.

Swiss bandings, worth up to 25c a yard, at 12½c yd.

This lot consists of about 200 pieces and 65 different patterns, in blind and showy effects.

5c each for fine embroidery medallions.

Just 200 dozen of these. Various shapes and patterns. These are qualities worth up to 15c each. Sale price is 5c each, and the majority are worth at least two times as much.

AN 85c TAFFETA DRESS SILK.

It's a noted taffeta and we've promised not to tell the name.

THAT was one of the conditions the maker sold us this 6,000 yards—that we shouldn't tell the name—and another was that the "brand" must be torn off the selvage before offered for sale. We've the silk now and have fulfilled the required conditions. It is a stanch quality of taffeta, has a beautiful luster, and will make up into a spring gown that will be the envy of all your women friends.

This Taffeta is 19 inches wide and shown in all the spring shades, such as white, ivory, pink, blue, champagne, natural, leather, Copenhagen, new blue, navy, royal, gray, old rose, brown, and plenty of blacks. We'll fill C. O. D. and mail orders that are received Monday. Do not let such a chance slip your notice. We do not expect to have a yard left Monday night.

A big sale of a little quantity—just 80 pieces. 39c plain silk warp washable pongee suits, while it lasts, 15c a yard.

The makers came near giving these goods to us. And at 15c a yard it's the next thing to a gift to the lucky buyers. This is a case of a maker being almost "painfully careful" about the condition of goods going out of their place. Stock keepers were careless. They allowed the ends of pieces to become soiled, and when the stock was drawn upon the goods were found to be a trifle soiled along one selvage. Now, with washable materials like this, the injury is one that amounts to nothing—positively nothing. But the makers didn't think so. They offered them to us at a few cents a yard—just to get them out of the way, they said. The sale price does not pay for the cost of the yards used in their making. Ten times as many as can get them will be glad to do so. Not mercerized pongee, but real silk warp.

Offered in light blue, pink, Nile, brown, gray, natural tan, and fast black. These are the shades one wants for outing dresses, for which this pongee is especially desirable. A real 39c washable dress fabric at 15c.

69c Belgium linen suit—
ing, a yard, 50c.

15c a yard is a saving worth considering, and that is what you do save when you purchase this good, firm quality of Belgium Linen Suiting, a 44-inch width, a fine round thread material, that sells regularly at 65c a yard.

12½c Irish Linen Suiting. A fine round thread linen, 38 inches wide, thoroughly shrunk, and a special to-morrow a yard at $1.00. Linen Department—First Floor.

36-inch bleached linen
waisting, a yard, 10c.

A regular 15c quality, soft finished, and suitable for women's waists, children's dresses and waists, and will launder with entire satisfaction. Five cents saved on the yard to-morrow. Domestic—First Floor.

INTERESTED IN SETTLEMENT.

Colored Social Organization Receives Attention Elsewhere.

That the Colored Social Settlement of this city is interesting people in other sections of the country is suggested by the report that a foreign missionary circle of the training school at East Northfield, Mass., has taken up a voluntary collection for the settlement at 116 and 118 M street southwest.

Miss Florence S. Lovett has sent $120 to Mrs. S. C. Fernandes, head resident of the settlement, with a letter saying, "I am contributed by three Bulgarian girls, one Scotch girl, one Irish girl, one girl from China, one Indian girl, a girl who has been a missionary in Egypt, another white girl, and two colored girls."

It was on the suggestion of the Egyptian missionary that the collection was taken up. Mr. Charles F. Weller, representing the board of trustees of the Colored Social Settlement, has written a special letter of thanks for this cosmopolitan contribution representing so many nationalities.

IS CAPITAL OF NATION AN UNAMERICAN CITY?

An article in a recent issue of the London Daily Chronicle by Sydney Brooks is entitled "Monarchical America," in which the author makes some interesting remarks about the growth of etiquette in Washington. In the course of his article he says:

"The beautiful and spacious city on the banks of the Potomac is unlike any capital in Europe, or any of its sister cities in America. It is an American community, doing un-American things, leading an un-American life. It lives simply for two things—society and politics. It neither talks business nor thinks it; the word conveys no more than a remote and abstract meaning to its mind. Commerce and all its banalities are refreshingly, delightfully absent. There is serenity, almost benignity, in its ordering of the routine of life. Nobody 'hustles' in Washington. It is the one city on the continent where America is really at leisure."

"That indeed is its great attraction. That, together with the lure and glitter of the diplomatic corps, is the reason why Washington steadily tends to become the center of American fashion and the haunt of the nouveaux riches."

"Being a city of leisure, Washington must have something to amuse itself with. Being also the headquarters of officialdom, the seat of government, and the center of diplomacy, it is natural that it should amuse itself with the problems of a republican court and the minutiae of precedence. I sometimes doubt whether any capital, even Vienna or Madrid, troubles itself so much about these questions as Washington. They are debated with a heat, an ingenueness, and a bitterness that can hardly be matched anywhere."

"It is not, however, all chaos. Certain rules have been evolved and certain customs established, which serve to guide each successive occupant of the White House. Thus the number of state dinners and receptions that the President has to give is now definitely fixed. Thus, too, it is now pretty well understood that an invitation to lunch or dinner at the White House is the equivalent of a command. Thus, also, it is now accepted that the President should on all occasions go in first, that nobody should sit down until he has taken his place, that he should always be served first, that he cannot accept hospitality under a foreign flag, and that if he has consented to dine at the house of one of his Cabinet ministers, a list of the proposed guests should be submitted to him in advance."

"But beyond this narrow region there is a whole wilderness still to be surveyed and staked out. Should Senators, for instance, be given the pass over Cabinet ministers? Does the Admiral of the Navy rank above the Secretary of the Navy? What is the relative position of the Speaker and of the Secretary of State? The Vice President being a sort of help-parent, ought Ambassadors to follow or precede him? What is the exact place of the judiciary in the scale of precedence? If two Senators were elected on the same day, which of them should make the first

WORLEY CLUB MEETS.

Second Annual Entertainment Held Wednesday Evening Last.

The second annual entertainment of the Worley Club was held on Wednesday evening last in the new building of the Bethany Baptist Church, Rhode Island avenue and Second street northwest. It was a combination of a musical and comical nature, and was furnished by the Floyd Featherston Company.

In point of attendance it was a great success, and a programme of music and monologue was rendered to an appreciative audience which packed the main floor and galleries. The unusual crowd was skillfully handled by a corps of ushers composed of young men of the class and no confusion resulted in seating those in attendance.

Mr. M. D. Kiefer, of the club entertainment committee, introduced Mr. Featherston and his assistants, who are well known to Washington audiences. Mr. Featherston added several new features to his usual programme and performed on a new instrument, which he has just completed, and for which he has not selected a name. His work was warmly applauded, and he was called on for a number of encores.

Meeting of the D. A. R.

Martha Burns Chapter, D. A. R., met Wednesday afternoon last, at the home of Mrs. Pleasant T. Chapman, 2140 Columbia road, the regent, Mrs. Ellis Logan, presiding. After the regular business several musical numbers were given—Mrs. Howard L. Coombs, pianist, and Miss Marian Chapman, vocalist. Mrs. Redwood Vandegrift read a paper on "Famous women of the Revolution," and a pleasant social hour followed.
